COMMUNITY PERFORMANCE PLANS

The RCMP have indicated that it intends to develop Community Performance Plans for all communities in the province. These plans are intended to reflect local policing priorities and augment provincial and national priorities.

The performance plans are part of the RCMP provincial 5 year business plan and it is mandated by the Provincial Police Service that all detachment areas have a detachment (Community) performance plan. The completion of these plans is part of the RCMP internal audit review process and is intended to enhance RCMP accountability.

The plans are a new and evolving process which focus on ongoing communication/consultation between the community, elected representatives and the RCMP. The plans are intended to be developed with appropriate input from the community (i.e. elected representatives, community administrators, community organized groups and citizen input town hall meetings) and to reflect the needs of the community.

The type of plan, the type of consultation, and the frequency of the reporting requirements back to the community are to be developed between the local government and the local Detachment Commander. The intent is that the plan will identify specific priorities the community would like addressed, the frequency of meetings (quarterly, semi-annual, etc.) and with whom (mayor/council, regional district board, electoral area representatives, community group, etc.). The local government and the Detachment Commander will be expected to "sign off" on the plan for the delivery of police service to the community.

Local governments have a choice in how and when Community Performance Plans are implemented. One, the local government can wait until the Community Performance Plans are rolled out in their area by the RCMP. Two, the local government can contact the Detachment Commander who is the local manager for the accountability framework of the District Officer who is responsible for overseeing the accountability framework in their district and request the development of a Community Performance Plan. Council met with staff Sgt. to identify community priorities, discussion continues.

2007 ASSESSMENT NOTICES

Recently, notices were sent to all property owners in the Grand Forks area. Within the City, the average residential assessed value increase for existing properties was 26.36%. Homeowners who have an increase below 26% should see little or no change to their 2007 tax bill compared with 2006. If your assessment increase is higher than 26%, you will likely see an increase, but it is dependent on what other taxing jurisdictions will charge for 2007. The change in the 2007 tax bill is also dependent on your electrical credit for 2007. Other taxing jurisdictions that will affect your tax notice are School Tax, Regional District, Regional Hospital, BC Assessment Authority and Provincial Policing (new this year). See the back page "Police Cost Update" for an explanation of the new Provincial Police costs.

Establishing how much to raise from property taxes is part of the budget process. Council must consider the costs of providing the services it believes the public wants—ascertained in part through an annual public process—and the non-taxation revenues available to offset these costs. The amount to be generated from property taxes is the difference between these two.

At the outset, the budget contains the same tax levy as levied in the prior year. If the value of the assessment roll has gone up because of market value change, the city has a larger assessment base from which to raise this revenue and tax rates go down. In other words, we factor market value change out of the calculation of the tax levy by reducing tax rates to compensate.

ELECTRICAL UTILITY IMPORTANT NOTES

The basic monthly charge to recover the cost of recurring services is now $10.00 per month. These services include cost of producing the invoices such as postage, envelopes, paper, computer hardware & software, as well as meters and meter readings. The overall residential electric rates are designed to be 2 % less than the Fortis BC Interior rates. The residential customer charge is 7% less than the Fortis BC Rate. The City's residential KWH charge is .06654 per KWH and the Fortis BC residential KWH charge is .06738. The City's rate is 1.3 % less than the Fortis BC rate.

ANY BALANCES FORWARD UNPAID BY THE DUE DATE OF MARCH 28, 2007, WILL BE SUBJECT TO IMMEDIATE DISCONNECT OF ELECTRICAL SERVICE!

Police Costs Update

Prior to 2007, all Municipalities under 5,000 population and all Regional Districts were not charged a direct tax for policing services. For City residents, the cost for policing was taken from the province's general revenues. For Regional District residents, it was recognized that some contribution to policing was being provided through the rural property tax on the annual tax notice.

In 2007, the province has developed a new police financing model, which will require small communities and rural areas in British Columbia to pay a more equitable share of their policing costs. Under the new model, less than 50% of the total annual provincial cost to police municipalities under 5,000 population and rural areas will be collected from property taxes. The cost will be apportioned to each community using a formula that combines property assessment values and population statistics.

The province will be charging the City $142,008 for police costs in 2007 and the Regional District Area D will be charged $68,890. Preliminary reports are that City residents will pay an additional $41 in taxes for an average residence and Regional District Area D residences will pay an additional $19 per average residence. If your residence is higher or lower than the average residence, you will be higher or lower than the $41 amount. The Regional District's share is less than the City's due to the recognition that some contribution to policing was being provided from the rural property tax paid to the province.

An additional category has been added to the yearly tax notice to reflect this change. The amount added to your tax notice will be eligible for the Home Owner Grant, so some residents will not see any change if their property value is below the amount required to pay the minimum tax. For City residents, the electrical credit to taxes will be in effect again this year, so some residents may not see a change depending on the amount of electrical credit to taxes.
